

Adultery no longer a crime in India

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, September 27

IN A HISTORIC judgment, the Supreme Court on Thursday struck down a colonial-era anti-adultery law, saying it was unconstitutional and discriminatory, denied the individuality of women and treated them as "chattel of husbands".

Declaring Section 497 of the IPC as manifestly arbitrary and unconstitutional, a five-judge Constitution Bench headed by Chief Justice Dipak Misra in a unanimous verdict said the archaic law violated a woman's right to equality and equal opportunity guaranteed under the Constitution as it treated women as chattels. It also said that the provision violated women's sexual autonomy and deprived her of dignity.

The apex court in its four concurring judgments termed adultery as a relic of the past and said the autonomy is intrinsic in dignified human existence and Section 497 denudes women from making choices. "A woman cannot be asked to think as a man or as how the society desires. Such a thought is abominable, for it slaughters her core identity. And, it is time to say that a husband is not the master. Equality is the governing parameter. All historical perceptions should evaporate and their obituaries be written," it said. The bench further said that the view that there cannot be a "patriarchal monarchy over the daughter" or "husband's monarchy over the wife".

While adultery should not be a criminal offence, the bench held that adultery should continue to be treated as civil wrong, and can be a ground for divorce.

The CJ and Justice Khamkar in their ruling said mere adultery cannot be a crime, but if any aggrieved spouse commits suicide because of life partner's adulterous relation, then if evidence is produced, it could be treated as an abetment to suicide.

Adultery might not be cause of unhappy marriage, it could be result of an unhappy marriage, Justice Misra said. However, he cautioned that the verdict should not be taken as a licence to indulge in such acts.

The provision punished only men for having sexual relationship with a married woman and was punishable by a maximum five years in jail or fine or both. Justice Indu Malhotra, the lone woman judge on the bench, said Section 497 is clear violation of fundamental rights.

Ayodhya land title dispute: SC paves way for hearing on Oct 29

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, September 27

THE SUPREME COURT on Thursday refused to refer to a larger bench its 1994 judgment which held that a "mosque is not essential to the practice of Islam," saying the ruling was given in the limited context of land acquisition and has no bearing in the Ramjanmabhoomi-Babri Masjid title dispute.

Stating that the 1994 observation was not relevant to decide the Ayodhya land title case, the three-judge bench in 2:1 majority decision said held that the case would be decided on the basis of its own facts and evidence.

Justice Ashok Bhushan, writing the judgment for himself and the Chief Justice Dipak Misra, said that "the Ismail Farooqui judgment was confined to acquisition of land and will not have any impact on this case. The mosque is not essential part of religion must be treated as an observation and not a governing factor," he said, adding that "all mosques, all churches and temples are significant for the community."

The third judge, Justice S. Abdul Nazeer, however, gave a particular significance to the 1994 ruling should be referred to the five-judge bench. While referring to the recent Supreme Court order that referred the female gender to a larger bench, the judge said that the present matter be also heard by the larger bench.

The hearing in the land title suit will now start from October 29 and will be heard by a newly constituted three-judge bench as Justice Misra will retire on October 2.

The issue to take a look at its earlier 1994 judgment had come during the hearing of cross-appals in the Ayodhya land title dispute. The Babri Masjid, a 16th century mosque was destroyed in 1992 by karsewaks so that a temple could be built for Lord Ram at Ayodhya.

In 1994, the SC bench had upheld the constitutional validity of the law to acquire land in Ayodhya including a religious place. It had held that offering prayer at any location would not be an essential or integral part of such religious practice unless the place had a particular significance for the religion. It also observed that namaz could be offered anywhere and that a mosque was not necessary for this.

Some Muslim parties had flagged the 1994 verdict, arguing that this observation appeared to have weighed heavily over the Allahabad

High Court judges who delivered the 2010 verdict in the land title suit.

The Uttar Pradesh government has opposed the stand, arguing that the Muslim groups were trying to delay the hearing in the case.

The HC in 2010 had partitioned the 2.77 acre of land equally among three parties — the Sunni Waqf Board, the Nir-mohi Akhara and Ram Lalla, represented by the Hindu Mahasabha. The apex court had stayed the decision in 2011.

Meanwhile, BJP Leader Subramanian Swamy said he would move the Supreme Court on Friday for an early listing of the Ram Janmabhoomi issue, adding that his fundamental right to pray overrides the Sunni Waqf Board's "inherent right to property. AIMIM chief Asaduddin Owaisi too said the Ayodhya matter should have been referred to a Constitutional bench. Owaisi said the Masjid was an essential feature of Islam and the judiciary could not decide what was essential to the religion.

Andhra bags top honour at National Tourism Awards

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, September 27

ANDHRA PRADESH, KERALA, Goa and Rajasthan bagged top honours at the National Tourism Awards 2016-2017, which were presented by Union Minister KJ Alphons on Thursday.

The awards were given in various segments of travel, tourism and hospitality industries. The tourism minister also launched the 'Incredible India' mobile app and the 'Incredible India Tourist Facilitators Certification programme'.

Andhra Pradesh bagged the top prize for promoting 'Andhra Pradesh Tourism' as a global brand, Kerala came second for comprehensive development of tourism. Rajasthan and Goa shared the third spot.

The awarders were chosen on the basis of several parameters including tourism footprint, initiative of the state government and policies implemented to make the state tourist-friendly.

A total of 77 awards were presented to the tourism industry stakeholders, state governments, central agencies and individuals.

Speaking on the occasion, Alphons said India has made great strides in the field of tourism during the last four years of the Modi government.

Today, tourism is the cornerstone of the Indian economy as it is a major source of employment and foreign exchange and in order to tap the full potential of this sector, the industry has to join hands, he said.

"The tourism sector needs to improve its hospitality services since it is the hospitality offered which is the distinguishing feature of India and gives it an edge over other countries," Alphons said.

It is the responsibility of every citizen to build the image of the country as a safe tourist destination, he added.

He also announced that India will be host the World Tourism Day celebrations for the UNWTO in 2019.

Speaking about the 'Incredible India' mobile app, the minister said it has been designed keeping in mind the preferences of the modern traveller and follows the trends and technologies of international standards.

Now, to showcase India as a holistic destination, revolving around major experiences such as spirituality, heritage, adventure, culture, yoga and wellness, among others.

Alphons said the ministry has also formulated a voluntary scheme for approval of operational motels with effect from September 25, 2018.

It is aimed at recognising the motel segment as a component of the overall tourism product and to set standards of facilities and services of motels, he added.

Alphons said flood-ravaged Kerala is ready to receive tourists since the hotels and tourist sites are now operational. He said Kerala is rapidly recovering from the disaster and now is the time for the tourism industry to support the state's tourism sector.

Adultery no longer a crime in India

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, September 27

IN A HISTORIC judgment, the Supreme Court on Thursday struck down a colonial-era anti-adultery law, saying it was unconstitutional and discriminatory, ended the individuality of women and treated them as chattel of husbands.

Declaring Section 497 of the IPC as manifestly arbitrary and unconstitutional, a five-judge Constitution Bench headed by Chief Justice Dipak Misra in a unanimous verdict held the archaic law violated a woman's right to equality and equal opportunities under the Constitution as it treated women as chattels. It also said that the provision violated a woman's sexual autonomy and deprived her of dignity.

The apex court in its four concurring judgments termed adultery as a relic of the past and said the autonomy is intrinsic and dignified human existence and Section 497 denudes women from making choices. "A woman cannot be asked to think as a man or as how the society desires. Such thought is inalienable for it slaughters her core identity. And, it is time to say that a husband is not the master. Equality is the governing parameter. All historical perceptions should evaporate and their obituary be written," it said. The bench further said that the view that there cannot be a "patriarchal over the daughter" or "husband's monarchy over the wife."

While adultery should not be a criminal offence, the bench held that adultery should continue to be treated as civil wrong, and can be a ground for divorce.

The CJ and Justice Kailashwari in their ruling said if mere adultery cannot be a crime, but if any aggrieved spouse commits suicide because of life partner's adulterous relation, then if evidence is produced, it could be treated as an abetment to suicide.

Adultery might not be cause of unhappy marriage, it could be result of an unhappy marriage, Justice Misra said. However, he cautioned that the verdict should not be taken as a licence to indulge in such acts.

The provision punished only men for having sexual relationship with a married woman and was punishable by a maximum five-year jail term or both. Justice Indu Malhotra, the lone woman judge on the bench, said Section 497 is clear violation of fundamental rights.

Ayodhya land title dispute: SC paves way for hearing on Oct 29

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, September 27

THE SUPREME COURT on Thursday refused to refer to a larger bench its 1994 judgment which held that a "mosque is not essential to the practice of Islam," saying the ruling was given in the limited context of land acquisition and has no bearing in the Ramjanmabhoomi-Babri Masjid title dispute.

Stating that the 1994 observation was not relevant to decide the Ayodhya land title case, the three-judge bench in 2:1 majority decision said held that the case would be decided on the basis of its own facts and evidence.

Justice Ashok Bhushan, writing the judgment for himself and the Chief Justice Dipak Misra, said that "the Ismaili Farooqui judgment was confined to acquisition of land and will not have any impact on this case. The mosque is not essential part of religion must be treated as an observation and not a governing factor," he said, adding that "all mosques, all churches and temples are significant for the community."

The third judge, Justice S. Abdul Nazeer, gave a dissenting judgment, saying the 1994 ruling should be referred to the five-judge bench. While referring to the recent Supreme Court order that referred the female genital mutilation case to a larger bench, the judge said that the present matter is also heard by the larger bench.

The hearing in the land title suit will now start from October 29 and will be heard by a newly constituted three-judge bench as Justice Misra will retire on October 2.

The issue to take a relook at its earlier 1994 judgment had come during the hearing of cross-appals in the Ayodhya land title dispute. The Babri Masjid, a 16th century mosque was destroyed in 1992 by karsewaks so that a temple could be built for Lord Ram at Ayodhya.

In 1994, the SC bench had upheld the constitutional validity of the law to acquire land in Ayodhya including a religious place. It had held that offering prayer at any location would not be an essential or integral part of such religious practices unless the place had a particular significance for that religion. It also observed that namaz could be offered anywhere and that a mosque was not necessary for this.

High Court judges who delivered the 2010 verdict in the land title suit.

The Uttar Pradesh government has opposed the stand, arguing that the Muslim groups were trying to delay the hearing in the case.

The HC in 2010 had partitioned the 2.77 acre of land equally among three parties—the Sunni Waqf Board, the Nimnoli Akhara and Ram Lala, represented by the Hindu Mahasabha. The apex court had stayed the decision in 2011.

Meanwhile, BJP leader Subramanian Swamy said he would move the Supreme Court on Friday for an early listing of the Ram Janmabhoomi issue, adding that his fundamental right to pray overrides the Sunni Waqf Board's "inferior" right to property. AIMIM chief Asaduddin Owaisi too said the Ayodhya matter should have been referred to a Constitutional bench. Owaisi said the Masjid was an essential feature of Islam and the judiciary could not decide what was essential to the religion.

Andhra bags top honour at National Tourism Awards

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, September 27

ANDHRA PRADESH, KERALA, Goa and Rajasthan bagged top honours at the National Tourism Awards 2016-2017, which were presented by Union Minister K J Alphons on Thursday.

The awards were given in various segments of travel, tourism and hospitality industries. The tourism minister also launched the 'Incredible India' mobile app and the 'Incredible India Tourist Facilitators Certification programme'.

Andhra Pradesh bagged the top prize for promoting 'Andhra Pradesh Tourism' as a global brand, Kerala came second for comprehensive development of tourism. Rajasthan and Goa shared the third position.

The awardees were chosen on the basis of several parameters including tourist footfall, initiative of the state government, and policies implemented to make the state tourist-friendly.

A total of 77 awards were presented to the tourism industry stakeholders, state governments, central agencies and individuals.

Speaking on the occasion, Alphons said India has made great strides in the field of tourism during the last four years of the Modi government.

Today, tourism is the cornerstone of the Indian economy as it is a major source of union minister Alphons Kannanthanam at a function held to mark World Tourism Day, in New Delhi on Thursday employment and foreign exchange and in order to tap the full potential of this sector, the industry has to join hands, he said.

The tourism sector needs to improve its hospitality services since it is the hospitality offered which is the distinguishing feature of India and gives it an edge over other countries," Alphons said.

It is the responsibility of every citizen to build the image of the country as a safe tourist destination, he added.

He also announced that India will be host the World Tourism Day celebrations for the UNWTO in 2019.

Speaking about the 'Incredible India' mobile app, the minister said it has been designed keeping in mind the preferences of the modern traveler and follows the trends and technologies of international standards.

It will showcase India as a holistic destination, revolving around major experiences such as spirituality, heritage, adventure, culture, yoga and wellness.

Alphons said the ministry has also formulated a voluntary scheme for approval of operational motels with effect from September 25, 2018.

It is aimed at recognising the motel segment as a component of the overall tourism product and to set standards of facilities and services of motels, he added.

Alphons said flood-ravaged Kerala is ready to receive tourists since the hotels and tourist sites are now operational. He said Kerala is rapidly recovering from the disaster and now is the time for the tourism industry to support the state's tourism sector.
